Catherine has left her career and friends to accompany her artist husband to Egypt, but his work engrosses him, leaving her rootless and lonely in the mystifying city of Cairo. A chance encounter with a stranger plunges her into a dangerous affair. Passion wars with terror when the man who loves her intensely and tenderly claims his love will kill her.

Beth Tashery Shannon worked with the Egypt Exploration Society's excavations at el-Amarna and contributed to Amarna Reports IV. Her short fiction has appeared in Pushcart Prize III and IX, Chicago Review, and TriQuarterly Review. Her story in Pleasures: Women Write Erotica (Doubleday) was a basis for an ABC TV movie. In 2009, Twilight actor Edi Gathegi performed her prose poem "Bons" with WordTheatre. Her novel Tanglevine was published in 2012 by BearCat Press, as was The Sun and Stars, a murder mystery set in the court of Henry VIII, under the pseudonym Elizabeth Adair. Shannon's literary criticism includes an essay on Salome in Approaches to Teaching the Works of Oscar Wilde (MLA Press). She has taught creative writing at the University of Oregon and Transylvania University and edited fiction for a publishing house. Besides writing, she freelances as a graphics artist, editor and consultant on Egyptian antiquities. She is a volunteer with Old Friends, a retirement facility for Thoroughbreds.
